New Remedy for Epileptics Is Out

Was Effective in Two-Thirds Of Trial Cases.

CHICAGO.—Dr. William G. Lennox of Boston declared that a still experimental drug had given "miraculous assistance" against the form of epilepsy that is most prevalent in children.

The drug is tridione (pronounced try-dye-on), and Lennox said it was effective in two-thirds of a series of cases treated for "petit mal"—the type of epilepsy in which the patient temporarily stares blankly ahead, sometimes exhibits jerky movements and occasionally falls.

Of the patients had gone for as long as 15 months without having seizures. But Lennox emphasized in a report prepared for the meeting of the American Psychiatric association that the drug was generally ineffective and even dangerous in the treatment of the more violent type of epilepsy, called "grand mal"—in which the patient falls convulsed to the ground in a violent "fit," sometimes foaming at the mouth.

Neuropsychiatric disorders have hospitalized approximately 250,000 World War II soldiers up to the first of this year—some of them more than once—but many will return to duty, the association was told by Brig. Gen. William C. Menninger, the army's chief of psychiatry.

He said also that 500,000 men were discharged from the army for "personality disturbances" of all types, and that approximately 1,000,000 men were rejected for military service for the same reasons.

Assessing that psychoses—the most serious types of mental disorders—constituted only 7 per cent of all neuropsychiatric cases hospitalized, Menninger said the army observed an "unexpectedly high recovery rate for psychotic patients in civilian hospitals." During 1943, he said, 7 of every 10 psychotic hospital admissions were "able to be discharged home."

Uncle Sam's Tars Like Bell Bottoms, Chief Says

WASHINGTON.—Uncle Sam's sailors have demonstrated such affection for their bell-bottomed trousers and their familiar blues and whites that the navy may reconsider plans to change uniforms.

Vice Adm. L. E. Denfeld, chief of naval personnel, said it would be at least 18 to 24 months before the navy's "blue" uniforms would be replaced by the proposed new stream-lined uniforms and "most officers and men would like to get back to blues and whites, instead of blues, grays, whites and khakis."

Philosophy: The study of pain has shown, according to Drs. Wolff and J. D. Hardy, that a person is able to distinguish differences in intensity of painful stimuli up to a specific measurable point after which there is a leveling off in reaction. It is suggested that the ability to perceive the difference in intensity "has an upper limit at approximately twice the intensity of stimulus at the pain threshold point where pain is first felt."

Egyptians Uncover Temple Nero Used

CAIRO.—A temple to the Egyptian god Thoth, believed to be 3,000 years ago by Remesies II, and used through the Roman emperor Nero's time, has been uncovered in excavations 60 miles south of Cairo.

Dr. Abdel Monem Abou Baker, antiquities professor at Farouk First university, said there was evidence that Nero visited the temple and worshipped there. Nero's name was found in the temple and a painting on the walls depicts Nero presenting gifts to Thoth, he added. The names of Egyptian Pharaohs are engraved on the walls.

Dr. Baker said he believed Nero ordered paintings of Remesies II and Thoth to be painted in the temple to show Egyptians he respected their gods. Several bronze statues were uncovered, including a well-known head of a statue which Dr. Baker believes was of Remesies II. Tombs in the temple contained coffins of stone.

Sea Lion Goes to Dogs; but in Pound

OAKLAND, CALIF.—Harry Fish had a wild but staged sea lion in his bathtub. Fishing on the roof of Bolinas bay but finding none, Fish captured the half-grown member of the seal tribe, instead the animal and brought it home for his 12-year-old daughter, Lucy Ann.

Selmer left his new home for a stroll and stopped to put on a free show on a neighbor's driveway. The neighbor called the police.

Police called to dog-catcher. Selmer was nabbed, the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals was notified, and the sea lion landed in the pound.

The dogs apparently didn't fancy sea lion entertainment, and so Selmer was returned and locked up this time in the Fish family bathroom.
